“For seventy-five years, BMA Global Missions has been a testament to God’s faithfulness, weaving a story of sacrifice, transformation, and hope across generations. Reflecting on its rich history, one cannot help but feel a deep sense of nostalgia—images of missionaries embracing foreign cultures, building bridges of trust, and planting seeds of faith come to mind. This legacy is not merely a recollection of past triumphs but a vivid reminder of the incarnational call to missions: to live among, serve, and love people as Christ did. BMA’s past blessings are more than milestones; they are guiding lights for future ministry, inspiring us to step into communities with humility and intentionality, carrying forward the gospel in both word and deed.”

“Whether your congregation was recently established in a remote village in Papua New Guinea, began in a European city decades ago, or was planted in a small sawmill town in the southern United States in the 1800s, one truth remains: God used a simple sinner, saved by grace, as His incarnational instrument to share the gospel, disciple believers, and bring them together to form that congregation. Churches do not simply appear from nothing. There has to be a heart transformed by the gospel, a heart filled with the Spirit of God, a heart dominated by the Word of God, and a heart totally given to the call of God’s mission in a specific place. It is that missionary passion and dedication that God has used over and over in just about every corner of the globe to make His name known and fulfill His mission. There will never be a better, more innovative, less sacrificial, or more effective approach to missions than the complete surrender and service embodied in a pure-hearted ‘Send Me!’”

Excerpts by Dr. John David Smith: “Send Me!”
